

The Ossining Public Library is grateful for Senator Elijah Reichlin-Melnick's support in securing a $60,000 New York State grant for the library.

This grant will fund the addition of study and small meeting rooms, as well as a space for the Teen Services staff that is more accessible to the Teen Room.

Matthew Weiss, president of the library's Board of Trustees, says "The Ossining Library Board is very appreciative of this grant and the efforts of Senator Reichlin-Melnick. Having this support will enable our dedicated staff to provide enhanced programs and services to our passionate patrons."

Library director Karen LaRocca-Fels adds, "We are so grateful to the Senator for the grant that he secured for the Ossining Public Library and the Ossining community. This project allows us to provide much needed meeting and study spaces for our community and also allows us to provide more support for our teenaged patrons by positioning our Teen Services staff nearer to where our teens use the library."
